

What You Can Do

3 Things You Can Do to Stop the Employee FORCED Choice Act

Union bosses don't want America talking about and debating their plan to take away the secret ballot in the workplace, because that's a debate they can't win. It's our job to make sure Americans know what the union bosses are trying to do – and that our U.S. Senators hear our voices too. Here's what you can do:

1. Contact your U.S. Senators

Your Senators can stop the “FORCED” Choice Act dead in its tracks, but they're on the receiving end of union pressure and intimidation – just like YOU would be under EFCA. So they need to hear from you. Your Senators need to know that business owners and employees want to preserve the secret ballot. Enclosed in this Toolkit is a sheet of sample letters you could send your Senators. And visit SaveTheElection.com to contact your Senators by fax, email or phone. Your Senators are hearing the demands of the union bosses. Now they need to hear from us.

2. Write a Letter to the Editor

The Letters to the Editor column in your local paper attracts a lot of attention, and it's a perfect place to get your community talking about the “FORCED” Choice Act and our drive to preserve the secret ballot in the workplace. A sheet of sample letters to the editor is enclosed. Write a letter today. And when you read union propaganda in the letters, respond. The more people know about this issue, the more opposed they are. America is on our side, so make sure your community knows what's at stake.

3. Speak Out

Talk to your family and neighbors about this. If you belong to community organizations, speak out there. Don't miss a chance to blow the whistle on union bosses' campaign to take away the secret ballot and rig the rules for their own benefit. Go to SaveTheElection.com/flyer and download a flyer you can print out and distribute to your employees. Display the poster enclosed in this kit to show where you stand. Make sure they know what's on the line.
